

Example: Transnational Youth Initiative project

This project involves two groups of young people from Ireland and the Netherlands. The young people want to explore issues promoting and supporting positive mental health in both countries and to create an online workbook designed to support resilience-building and coping skills for young people and to link to service providers. The project involves two organisations: the Irish organisation will coordinate the project and submit the application; the Dutch partner is the participating organisation. The project will last for six months and will include 21 participants (Ireland – 8 young people plus 3 leaders; the Netherlands – 8 young people plus 2 leaders). The project incorporates blended mobility: Dublin - Amsterdam 1.131km
