Context - In connection with 'Sve 20' ('Up and Down'). A marathon that my salesian association organises in Venice every year.

Objectives - social tourism in Venice. Cause a lot of people visit Venice, but how many really know something about his social context, his history, his difficulties? → FEELING MORE CONNECTED WITH LOCAL TERRITORY

Number and profile - more than 10.000 at the marathon
 Schools, families.

Description - Visiting churches, associations, social and cultural activities, interesting initiatives, testimoniances by homeless

Methodology - creating different itineraries you can choose also in relation with ages and interests.
 There could be a volunteer for every group and then someone in every place you go visiting and exploring.

Results - more conscious and involved in local territory. for young people I think is really good see how many different initiatives can be in their city. Also what they can do.

Three summer camps with the same concept will be carried out in Spain, Malta and Montenegro. These summer camps will be run for 2 weeks in July, during the same time frame. Each camp will be run by local volunteers who are 18+; however each camp will also have an open application for 2 international volunteers from the countries participating in the project. The participants for the summer camp will be 13-16 year old youths. The volunteers will organise various activities for them, including sport activities, non-formal education sessions and cultural diversity by the international volunteers. In the evening, the focus will be on community time between volunteers, therefore facilitating intercultural connections between European young people. This is is the main objective of the project, along with offering an opportunity for mobility and personal development for volunteers.

Let's mix it up is an international summer camp for teenagers that will take place in July of 2017. In this youth exchange, a group of 3 animators from Slovenia and 2 animators from Belgium will accompany 2 groups of ± 12 teenagers (13-14 y.o.) from these countries to have 8 days of intercultural learning and fun activities in Soča, Slovenia. They will also go sightseeing, do outdoor activities and learn about each others culture, habits and life-styles. The aim of this project is to have (maybe the first) international ~~collaboration~~ and intercultural contact for these teenagers and to see what it means to be a part of Europe. We expect that it will also strengthen their values of solidarity and friendship and be very beneficial for their English. Through this intercultural experience, the participants are aware of their own cultural framework and they are more aware of the differences and similarities between their countries and they will have a better sense of European citizenship.

In 2012 there were 129.353 people with physical disabilities in Belgium. Not all of them have a person they can trust with their day-to-day-needs, such as helping with the shopping & public transport. They also need a person on whom they can rely on and be their friend.

In Austria there is a project in which adults with disabilities get a buddy from their hometown, who helps them through some everyday challenges. Those buddies have to do a training workshop, in which they learn about first aid, what they have to pay attention to when working with disabled people & how the legal system works. During that workshop the participants also have to do some practical activities such as following a nurse, a social worker & a psychiatrist around & so learn necessary skills they need later on.

Our project is going to target students from schools & universities in Brussels, Vienna & Bregenz from the age 18 to 30, who are willing to spend some of their free time helping young people with physical disabilities. The volunteers will travel to Vienna for a time period of 10 days to participate at the training workshop. After the workshop each of the participants will be assigned a certain person with physical disabilities. The selection criteria will be age, interests & place of residence.

Once a month there will be a Skype-conference for all buddies in which they can share their experiences & also talk to psychiatrists, nurses & social workers.

After 1 year the buddy system will end.

We hope that the project can raise awareness of the needs of people with disabilities & also form new friendships.
